

HOLOCAUST, GENOCIDE & HUMAN RIGHTS EDUCATION INSTITUTE

Cutting-edge professional development: for teachers and with teachers

Penn State, University Park at the Nittany Lion Inn
June 22-26, 2020

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS (DEADLINE: JAN. 31, 2020)

The Holocaust, Genocide and Human Rights Education Initiative at Penn State is a partnership between the Bellisario College of Communications, College of Education, and College of the Liberal Arts with the Pennsylvania Department of Education (PDE) and the Act 70 Advisory Board, which includes the Pennsylvania Holocaust Education Council, the Anti-Defamation League, Gratz College, and other state and national organizations. The Initiative is holding an intensive 5-day professional development institute for middle- and high-school teacher-leaders of all content areas from around Pennsylvania. This all-expense paid session is offered to Pennsylvania educators.

As part of this professional development experience, participating teachers will collaborate with national experts in developing educational goals, implementing them in their classrooms, and sharing these approaches with their schools and districts.

- Sharpen your teaching skills in an academic-professional collaborative environment
- Learn how to teach difficult subjects more effectively and confidently
- Hone classroom engagement skills
- Discover new ideas and tools for your students
- Earn Act 48 professional-development credits
- Work with PD specialists, historians, scholars, and other teacher-leaders
- Receive long-term support to implement strategies
- Meet state academic standards and Act 70 requirements
